MRS. MUNDELL IN POEM PLEADS FOR PEACE IN D. A. R.

New York Delegate Urges a
More Generous
Rivalry.

An appeal to the delegates attending the convention of the Daughters of the American Revolution to cease their factional strife, was made by Mrs. Roslyn Mundell, of New York city, today, in poetical form. Mrs. Mundell is one of the handsomest women attending the congress. She is connected with the Lees, of Virginia, and some of the oldest families of the South.

Resides being a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Mrs. Mundell is a Colonial Dame, a Daughter of the Confederacy, and is affiliated with other patriotic organizations.

The title of the poem is "Peace in the Revolution," and is as follows:

Daughters of Revolution, All Hail!
The capital of our great country
Gives greeting and goodspeed. We bear
The hero strain of this Republic
Straight from loins of soldiers,
Seers, and patriots comes the blood
Rich in the Republic's history and life.
We are one large of high example
To the observing times—unashamed
In fine reserve, and noble charity.
Stare, bear this in our hearts today—
Our fathers not fought their enemies
Not each other. We owe it now,
First to our history, after to ourselves,
In the dignity of Daughters. Bury
Now all bitter strife, bid faction cease,
And let each content begin here,
In generous rivalry, and in noble peace—
—Amen!

GRAND JURY PROBES BRIBERY CHARGES

Investigation Is Now Under Way In Court At Maryland
Capital.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 17.—It is likely the whole of today will be taken up with the hearing by the grand jury of circuit court of witnesses in the charges of bribery at the recent session of the Legislature, and that any presentments are unlikely before tomorrow.

Delegate William R. Smallwood, Miss Nettie Dean, the house of delegates stenographer, and George R. Baldwin, the star witnesses in the attempted bribery charges against John F. O'Malley, the official and politician, have not been called, the fact indicated that the whole of today and yesterday were taken up in the hearing of reports of bribery entirely unconnected with the case which has obtained such notoriety.

Members of the house of delegates from Prince George, Montgomery, and Wicomico counties and a number of the newspaper men were heard by the grand jury today, and the sessions will continue this afternoon.

Franklin Died on This Day 122 Years Ago

Today is the anniversary of the death of Benjamin Franklin in 1790. He was born in Boston, January 17, 1706. On this day, 1793, appeared the first newspaper published in Georgia, the Georgia Gazette, published at Savannah. On April 17, 1826, Quebec became the capital of Upper and Lower Canada. Five years ago today W. J. Bryan declared in favor of the initiative and referendum. This is the anniversary of the capture of the Virginian outpost by the French in 1754, which was supplanted with a stronger fort called Fort Du Quesne. A year ago today France began rushing troops to Morocco to quell rebellion among the tribesmen.
